Little Bobbie and His Pa

Ma Has Pa Read the Verses of a New Peet and Pa Des Not Think Much of Them. By William P. Kirk

FTER I get thru with this book of verse, sed ma to pa last nite, I want you to read it ton I paid only a dollar & a half for it, ma sed, & considering the fack that it is the first work of a new poet, I think I got it very cheep,

I donnt think the first work of any new poet is worth a dollar & a half, pa sed. Theare was a time, pa sed, hen I wad have paid almost any price for a good book, but owing to the pres-for a good book, but owing to the prefent, ligh cost of living things is different. The way I look at it now, payed, a dollar as a half may not be too much but it is fifteen cool glasses of lager or five pounds of good, sub-stangled steak. Who is the young but that they are calling a new poet? Sed payed his main is Orland La Torca, sed may his heam is in Californy & he nevver went to a college or even a high scheel. Him & his parents lived out among the redwood tries, mayed, & they was too poor to give him much educashun. But the boy cuddent be stopped. His wunderful geenyus asserted itself wen he was only sixteen. Jest lissen to this, one of his vary first poems. It is called Sunrise, & I think it is simply divine. Lissen: Pirst comes a finsh of pink so nearly white.

That color seems a hint alone. Then comes

A bolder tint, as though the god of

A dew-damp bird sings in a gnarled And then the morning dawns all

Was that one of the first things he Was that one of the first things he wrote? sed pa.

It was one of the vary first things, sed ma. I shud think his parents wild be vary proud to have such a boy.

Oh, I deant know, sed pa. I am a whole lot prouder of littel Bobbie than I wild be of any almost-poet. I doant think much of the piece you jest red sed pa. 'Dew-damp hird, sed pa. Ha. ha, that must have been sum bird. I have heard of cold birds & hot birds, pa sed, & I have herd of wise birds & gay birds, but I doant think I wild know what to say to a dew-damp bird if I was interduced to one.

Oh, doant try to be curning, sed ma You know rite down in yure hart that the poem I jest red to you is sure to be immortal.

be immortal.

Immortal rats sed pa. It is nothing but a bunch of junk. I guess tharmust hire been at least ten thousand poems ritten about sunrise, sed pa. moast of them by beepul that dident know emiff to get up in time to see a reglar sunrise. & all of them poems and the salm thing, sed pa. about the first tim of dawn steeling into the sky & about a bird singing. Why cant a bird sing oust in a while without a poet beeing its press agent, pa. sed. I field me sum moar of those dethless noems, sed pa, I want to git a hed ake. Then lissen to this dainty littel love ballad, sed ma.

Arabella, Arabella,

Tripping lightly through the meadow
Where the sunset throws its shadow,
How I love to watch the meeting

Whos, sed ps. that will do. I have now hed ake now, ps. sed, & you wont have to read any moor to me tonite I see the Glants are getting into thare regiar form, Bobbie.

Dances

One of the most brilliant dances of the scason at the post hall in Fort Bills was given in honor of Miss Virginia Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. U. S. Stewart, of El Paso, by Col. Frank West and the officers and their wives at Fort Bliss on Friday night. The large dance hall was very attractively decorated in flags and sabers, emblements of the army. During the dancing, punch and lemonade were served and later in the evening refreshments of ice cream and cake. The entire hand of the 2d cavairy played and the music was excellent. In the receiving line were: Col. Frank West, Mr. and Mrs. U. S. Stewart, Miss Virginia Stewart, Gen. Hugh Scott and Maj. Robert E. L. Michle. Those present were: Col. and Mrs. Robert Read. Maj. and Mrs. John Whin, Maj. and Mrs. Charles N. Barney, Maj. and Mrs. Wilson T. Davidson, Lieut. and Mrs. R. M. Beck, Lieut. and Mrs. Howard Smalley. Lieut. and Mrs. J. K. Brown, Lieut. and Mrs. J.
